

No-Talent Night

A 35-minute hobby tasting party. Talent may attend, but it has no special privileges.

1-6 adults · 3 tiny experiments · no shopping required if supplies are on hand

Gather: paper, pencils, an ordinary object, a soft cloth, and an empty cardboard box. A wall clock or kitchen timer is optional. Invite people to keep any needed assistive or essential devices available.

0-6 minutes: Settle in, choose comfortable materials, and agree that passing, observing, or adapting an activity is welcome. This is a tasting menu, not an exam.

01

The Wonky Object Gallery / 8 minutes

Put an ordinary object on the table. For one minute, look at its outline while drawing it slowly without looking down. Try twice more, then give your favorite attempt a museum title. Looking down or describing the object instead is fine.

02

The Sound-Only Movie / 8 minutes

Use paper, a soft cloth, and an empty cardboard box to invent three quiet sounds. Arrange them into a 20-second scene: a rainy walk, a creaky spaceship, or your own idea. Perform it once. Others may guess the title; no recording needed.

03

The Map Nobody Else Could Make / 8 minutes

Sketch a real or imaginary place. Add three details a normal map would miss: the best sunbeam, the creaky stair, or the excellent thinking spot. Give the map a name. Share only what you want; keep private addresses and routines off public versions.

30-35 minutes: Give each experiment a verdict: AGAIN / MAYBE / NOT FOR ME. Name one enjoyable detail. Pick a favorite to repeat, or clear the table and call the evening a success.

Host note: Keep sounds comfortable, walkways clear, and materials suitable for the group. Written sound descriptions are a quiet alternative. Ask permission before taking or sharing photos. No food, heat, blades, or chemicals are needed.

Share the invitation: You may print and share this complete kit for personal use and free library or community gatherings. Keep the author credit and resource link. Do not resell it or imply an endorsement.

<https://graham-ellery-caregiver.danrs100.chatgpt.site/offline-hobby-club/no-talent-night/>

AN INVITATION YOU CAN GIVE AWAY

Your presence is requested.

Your talent is optional.

Come to a No-Talent Night: three tiny hobby experiments, 35 minutes, and absolutely no talent audition. Bring a pencil if you have one. Passing or just watching is welcome.

When: _____

Where: _____

Host / how to reply: _____

THE TASTING CARD

The Wonky Object Gallery

AGAIN / MAYBE / NOT FOR ME One thing I noticed: _____

The Sound-Only Movie

AGAIN / MAYBE / NOT FOR ME One thing I noticed: _____

The Map Nobody Else Could Make

AGAIN / MAYBE / NOT FOR ME One thing I noticed: _____

Want another round?

The Offline Hobby Club by Graham Ellery explores 70 hobbies with practical first projects, ways to choose, and ideas for continuing. Kindle, paperback, and hardcover are available on Amazon. The host kit is free; the book is sold separately.

